National Careers Service

Organisation details

Description of activity

The National Careers Service provides information, advice and guidance to help you make decisions on learning, training and work opportunities. The service offers confidential and impartial advice. This is supported by qualified careers advisers.

How we can help you

We know that everyone has the ability and potential to develop and grow in their lives and careers. We also understand that sometimes things get in the way and can hold you back.

The National Careers Service website aims to:

- help you with careers decisions and planning
- support you in reviewing your skills and abilities and develop new goals
- motivate you to implement your plan of action
- enable you to make the best use of high quality career related tools.

Have you been made redundant and are unsure of your next move? Are you returning to work from time out? We can help.

Perhaps you have just finished college or university and are considering your next move. You might be unhappy in your current job and ready for a change, but not sure what. You might have been out of work for a while and looking for job hunting tips.

Whatever your situation, whatever your barriers, we're here to help you overcome them and reach your potential.

We also realise that jobs these days need more skills and qualifications. This means making the right decisions about your learning and development is more important than ever. We're here to help you build on your strengths, improve your weaker areas, and help you find a job or career that suits your skills and personality.
