Bounce Theatre

Organisation details

Description of activity

Bounce makes original, imaginative, and brave work.

We make space for children and young people to tell stories, to be heard, and to hear themselves.

Our programme is a mix of new writing projects, podcasts, and theatre making opportunities. We make our work in person and digitally. Along with this we provide opportunities to make independently at home.

We make our work with care to create actions that effect change. Together, we find new ways to see the world and our potential within it. We champion care, kindness and innovation.

Participate

We run a variety of projects, which are commissioned or funded for different purposes. Some are for existing groups and others will be open to the general public. We make as much as possible open and inclusive for people to participate. Please see our projects pages for specific details. If you have questions about any aspect of what we do please email us via the contact form on the Bounce website.
