Stanley Picker Gallery

Organisation details

Description of activity

Stanley Picker Gallery at Kingston University is one of the leading university galleries working with artists, designers, students, academics and members of the local community to encourage creativity, learning, research and innovation.

The gallery participation programme involves working collaboratively with schools, colleges, community groups and local residents of all ages, to deliver a range of creative activities and shared learning and professional development opportunities for students, that engage everyone in the life of the Gallery, our partner venue Dorich House Museum and the wider University.

Stanley Picker Gallery runs popular Saturday Art Clubs for children and young people of the local community who are enthusiastic about art and design. Workshops are FREE for all and run most weekends 11am-12.30pm (ages 7-11) and once a term, 2-3.30pm (ages 14-18). Additionally, we run regular SEND-only events.

How can a child or young person with SEND take part in this activity

The gallery has developed long-term partnerships with local schools and SEND students groups, and other local communities and organisations, including the Hogsmill Community Garden, The Bradbury, Refugee Action, Mind and Samaritans, Ariadne's Thread and other specialist organisations from further afield. All participants are invited to create new work inspired by our programme and to stage accompanying events. Additionally, we run regular SEND-only events.
